

Never climb on the poles that hold up the electric wires on your street. They are dangerous. I am carefully trained to work on those poles, and only do so when I must.

